LONDON, SATURDAY, December 5, 1730. NUMB. XXXIV.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

Odi profanum Vulgus & arceo. HOR.

SIR,

I Have long been acquainted with the greateſt Part of the Grubean Society; but there are two amongſt them in particular, to whom I have many Obligations, and for whom I have a real Value and Eſteem. I have long waited for a favourable Opportunity to give them a little friendly Admonition behind the Curtain, and if you will oblige me with the Conveyance, I ſhall open the Secrets of my Heart freely; and, as they have no Jealouſy of my lending you an aſſiſting Hand, I ſhall gratify my Inclinations, without running the leaſt Hazard of diſſolving the Bands of Friendſhip. How often have I bluſh'd for the impertinent Collector of their News! How often have his artleſs Remarks made me ſick, and thrown me into the Spleen! Very ſeldom, if ever, are they tolerably witty; often are they very envious and ill-natur'd, and too often, I am ſorry to ſay ſo, intolerably inſolent and prophane. Could any Reflection be ever more flat and ſenſeleſs than that on the poor unfortunate Plaiſterer? Can any Thing be ſo inveterate, ſo impotently-malicious, as his ſtrain'd Conceit on his new Incendiary, the Long-chin'd Hack? Or any Wiſh ſo contemptible and impious, as that pour'd forth on the untimely Death of a poor Diſſenter? Unjuſtly to defame, and fully the Character of our Neighbour, purely to gratify the Itch of being witty, is more cowardly and villainous, than to clap a Piſtol to his Breaſt, and take from him what we have no Right to demand. "He that robs me of my Money, "ſays the inimitable Shakeſpeare, robs me of Trash; 'twas "mine, 'tis his, and has been Slave to Thouſands; but he "that robs me of my good Name, robs me of that, which "not enriches him, but makes me poor indeed." To reflect on his unhappy Circumſtances is ungenerous and inhumane. All Mankind are liable to the Viciſſitudes of Fortune, and Adverſity ſuſtain'd with a good Grace is much more glorious, than the greateſt Proſperity. And laſtly, to inſult and deride him for his natural Imperfections, is indecent as well as wicked; is no real Diſcredit to the Object ridicul'd, but an open Affront to the all-wiſe Author of his Being. 'Tis with the utmoſt Reluctance that I aſſure my Friends, they have tranſgreſs'd the known Laws of Satyr, as well as ſtray'd from the Paths of Chriſtian Virtue. I am heartily ſorry ſo judicious a Phyſician as Doctor M——n, and ſo learned a Divine, as the Reverend Mr. R——', who are publiſhing an elaborate Performance by Subſcription, for the Service of their Country, and in which I ſincerely wiſh them all the Encouragement, ſo great and uſeful an Undertaking juſtly deſerves; I am ſorry, I ſay, two ſuch Gentlemen of Credit and Reputation, ſhould connive at ſuch egregious Conundrums, and give a Sanction to ſuch Ribaldry and Nonſenſe. How more refin'd a Taſt had the Ancients of Satyr, than what the Moderns, I mean my Friends the Grubeans ſeem to have! They ever let eſſ'd their Flails at the Vices of Mankind in general; but never attempted to threſh one particular Man. They never treated each other in the Language of Billingſgate; but in Converſation would be Smart in their Repartees without Malice or ill Nature. PHAEDRUS has given us a beautiful Inſtance of their Conduct on ſuch Occaſions, in his humourous Fable of the Fox and the Stork; to the Original of which I ſhall refer your learned Readers; but for the Amuſement of the Fair Sex, and ſuch Gentlemen who have not Leizure or Inclination to peruſe the Claſſicks, I ſhall give you an agreeable Tranſlation of it, by that very individual, Long-chin'd Hack, whom they have, without the leaſt Ray of Wit, ſo groſſly affronted; a Gentleman, who is my intimate Acquaintance, as modeſt, and inoffenſive a Man, as the Parſon of the Pariſh in which he lives, and as well affected to the preſent happy Eſtabliſhment both in Church and State, as any Grubean of them all. If theſe curſory Animadverſions on their ill Conduct ſhould contribute in the leaſt tow'rds the Reformation of their Manners, and be eſteem'd any Proof, that my old bottle Companion is not that illiterate Animal they have ſo ſtupidly repreſented him to be, it will anſwer the utmoſt Ambition of their Friend as well as his, and

The Dinner's brought in Chryſtal Jars,
And REYNARD ſees he's bit.

VIII.

The STORK regales now in his Turn:
Pray, Mr. REYNARD, feed:——
He licks the Bottles round and round;——
'Tis mighty good indeed.

IX.

They riſe.——And thus the ſmiling STORK
The hungry FOX addreſt;
Come, REYNARD, own your Treatment juſt,
You taught me firſt the Jeſt.

The Application.

Urge not Revenge, when ridicul'd,
But if you find you're bit;
Reſent it in a proper Way,
With equal Wit for Wit.

SIR,

THE Town very well knows Mr. C——r has wrote well, acted better, and at this Hour underſtands the Laws of the Stage the beſt of any Man in England. Who, therefore, who has the leaſt Spark of Gratitude, or good Nature in him, can read the repeated, pitiful Invectives of the Grubs againſt him with any tolerable Patience? Give me leave to tell them DUCK, tho' warm'd with the Sunſhine of the Court, is no formidable Rival, and that the Old Gentleman has ſtill good Blood in his Veins, and lives under no Apprehenſions of being threſh'd. As you were pleas'd, but a little while ago, to give me the Opportunity of revenging my ſelf on their envious Epigrammatiſt, for the Indignities offer'd to my old Friend Dr. H——ns; ſo I beg you will indulge me once more by inſerting Mr. BAVIUS's dull, malicious and ill-natur'd Conceit againſt my Friend Colley, with my Off Hand Anſwer annext in his Vindication. Your Compliance with this Requeſt will be eſteem'd an additional Favour conferr'd on

BEhold! ambitious of the Britiſh Bays,
C——R and DUCK contend in Rival Lays;
But, gentle COLLEY, ſhould thy Verſe prevail,
Thou haſt no Fence, alas! againſt his Flail:
Wherefore thy Claim reſign, allow his Right;
For DUCK can threſh, you know, as well as write.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

SIR,

I Am Porter to a rich young Nobleman, who has a very numerous Retinue collected from the four Quarters of the World. When I have a full Hall, I often imagine my ſelf in Old Babel, we have ſuch a Confuſion of Tongues. Amongſt the reſt, we have an Iriſh Poet who is firſt Footman to my Lord; whoſe blund'ring Rhimes are the frequent Diverſion of the whole Family. His Lordſhip himſelf indulges his Genius, and tips him half an Ounce now and then, for one of his merry Amuſements. Honeſt Teague however made an Elopement the Night before laſt, with an old Bottle Companion, and never came home till the next Morning. Being abſent at Supper, Enquiry was made after Teague, but to no Purpoſe; and his Lordſhip was ſo far provok'd, that he vow'd he'd diſcard him the next Day. Before half the Family was ſtirring, our Poet creeps up to his Parnaſſus, that is, his Garret, where, by his Brother-Footmen, he is acquainted with his Lordſhip's high Diſpleaſure. Arrah, my dear Honey, ſays Teague, let me alone for that now. By my Fait, I vill ſhit down, and write my own Caſhe, and when his Lordſhip comes to know how I have been abuſ'd, by my Shoul, dear Joy, he vill compaſhionate my Miſhfortunes, and before he is angry, he vill pay me for my great Loſhes.

So ſaid, ſo done. Teague draws up his Caſe in Poetical Form, and when his Lordſhip was dreſſing, waits on him, with a more downcaſt Look, than old Don Quixot's, the Knight of the woful Countenance, and preſents his Memorial. His Lordſhip happen'd to be in a good Humour, his Cauſe came on immediately, and the Secretary being call'd, Teague's Allegations were order'd to be read in open Court. Sentence was paſs'd in his Favour; and hadn't there been an unlucky Flaw (a Confeſſion poor Teague was'nt aware of) in the Cloſe of it, he had certainly recover'd Damages. However Teague's Verſes were order'd to be regiſter'd, among the reſt of his learned Operations, under the Title of Teague demoliſh'd; or the Street Robbery. As you have many Accounts of the like Tranſactions, inſerted in your Publick Papers, which I preſume are equally true, I hope this may find a Place in your Regiſter. If you inſert it in your next, there will be two Advantages that will attend your Compliance; the firſt is, that it will ſerve to fill up a vacant Corner in your Paper; and the laſt is, that if it comes out, whilſt 'tis piping hot, there's not one in our Family but will be a Purchaſer. I am, &c.

TEAGUE DEMOLISA'D; Or, the STREET-ROBBERY.

BY Chreeſt, and St. Patrick, going home late laſt Night,
About two in the Morning, I was put in a Fright.
Comes a Dog in a Doublet; ſtripe all in his Shirt,
And throws down poor Teague very clean in the Dirt.
Then firing his Piſhtol direct in my Faiſh;
Stand ſtill you damn'd Dog or you're dead on the Plaiſh:
Deel taak him, thought I, for his Vavour and Graiſe.
Confounded and ſpeechleſs, bold as Heroe, I cry'd,
Your Rogueſhip, dear Joy, ſhall at Tyburn be try'd.
If Teague catch you again at ſuch damn'd Tricks as theſe,
He vill ſwear, Sir, upon you his Majeſty's Peaſe.
Thus threatned, he ſhivilly cry'd, my dear Honey,
I'll not hurt thee at all, but preſhent me thy Money:
My Money, dear Joy, 'tis Teague's Shoul;——he's undone.——
But e'en take it all; for by Chreeſt I have none.

SIR,

HAving ſpent beſt Part of my Eſtate with an ungrateful Vintner, your publiſhing the enclos'd, will not only ſhew my juſt Reſentment, but perhaps be a ſeaſonable Warning to ſome of your Boon Companions. I am,

Sir, Your, &c.

BACCHUS turn'd HONEST; Or, good ADVICE to TIPPLERS.

My Friends,

IF you would have good Wine, and due Reſpect in a Tavern, uſe it but ſeldom, and beſure pay ready Money; for if you wed your ſelf to a particular Houſe, or ſuffer your Name to ſully but one Page of their Bar Book, it makes the Maſter familiar, and the Drawers ſaucy. Beſides, it is a certain Maxim in their Politicks, "to impoſe moſt upon their beſt "Cuſtomers, and always to treat them with the greateſt Reſpect, "that are their ſmalleſt Benefactors." For the Devil, and moſt Vintners are of one Temper, and will not be induſtrious to oblige the Perſons they are ſure of.

Repenting Fools have oft confeſt,
That thriving Vintners make lean Gueſts;
As they grow rich, there's nothing ſurer,
Than that your Topers prove the poorer.
Therefore whene'er they're ſaucy grown,
Complain not, for the Fault's your own:
'Tis Nonſence at their Pride to grumble;
Since you your ſelves may keep them humble.
Spend warily, and you will find,
Your ſelves more happy, them more kind.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER.

Parturiunt Montes.—————— HOR.

SIR,

ON Thurſday in the Afternoon, having heard uncommon Applauſes of the Grub-ſtreet Journal, I determin'd to lay out Two-pence in the Purchaſe. After I had for ſome Time very wiſhfully ſurvey'd the Picture Work, I couldn't forbear bluſhing for the Grubs, who in their late Advertiſements had, with more than an Hibernian Aſſurance, rais'd my Expectation, and promis'd me the lively Effigies of my Lord May'r more artfully executed, than any Thing of the like Nature hitherto extant. At firſt Glance I thought my ſelf impos'd on, and that, by the Scull-cap, they had trump'd up the Picture of Dr. Noddy the Preſbyterian Parſon, equip'd for ſome Country Viſitation; nor had I been convinc'd of the contrary, hadn't I, by a ſecond, and more narrow View obſerv'd the Regalia. As I have the Honour to be daily in his Lordſhip's Service, and conſequently am no Stranger to his Features, I do aver it, and ſure I am, I ſpeak the Opinion of the beſt Judges, that 'tisn't half ſo much like him, as their Engraver's like a Blackhead. Indignation, Juvenal tells us, without a Genius, will qualify a Man to make Verſes, and therefore I ſhall venture to give you my free Sentiments of that elaborate Performance, in Heroicks.

Who but the Grubs would draw a Jocky thus?
Without his Boots, without his Pegaſus?
Fixt on a Stone, as ſtiff as any Statue,
And cut in two, how ſimply he looks at you!
'Twas a good Thought to ſhow the Sword and Mace,
For none could know his Lordſhip by the Face.

Tho', I muſt confeſs, I wouldn't give one ſingle Farthing for Markham's and Baſire's moſt wond'rous Works put both together; yet the BISHOP's Character of a good Magiſtrate, who, I dare ſay, hadn't his Lordſhip in his Eye, at the Time he wrote it, is, in my Opinion, honeſtly worth my Money. As to the French and Latin Encomiums, by Way of Head-piece and Tail-piece to this Grand Operation, which I preſume were intended for the Amuſement of Foreigners; they are, in my Opinion, as flat and contemptible as their Picture-work.

Their awkard, Comic Praiſe, is little better,
Than, what their Talent wholly lies in, Satyr.

In Order to undeceive the illiterate Populace therefore who imagine theſe Grubs moſt prodigious Scholars, and their Grand Panegyrick inimitable, becauſe above their Underſtandings, I'll venture at a Tranſlation of the French, and appeal to any impartial Judge, if I have not faithfully preſerv'd the Senſe, tho' perhaps I may have flatten'd it a little, by the Tranſfuſion. I would have attempted the Latin, which, I preſume, was compos'd by their ſhining Genius Mr. Poppy; but as the Beauties of it lie wholly wrapt up in ſmart Puns and Conundrums, I am afraid I ſhould do it Injuſtice, by attempting to cloath it in an Engliſh Dreſs. I am conſcious to my ſelf it is a too arduous Task to be executed in the Off Hand Way; but perhaps I may make my ſelf Maſter of the profound Senſe of it ſome Time or other, and publiſh it, if ever they ſhould dignify and diſtinguiſh me again, by the Title of Ignoramus, or the Dutch Tranſlator. If what I have done already meets with your favourable Approbation, and contributes in the leaſt tow'rds the Sale of your Paper, it anſwers the utmoſt Ambition of; Sir, Your very humble Servant, L. L.

The French Frontiſpiece to my Lord Mayr's Picture, in the Grubſtreet Journal of the 3d Inſtant, Paraphras'd in Heroicomic Verſe.

Whoſe Picture's this? — Thou Fool, canſt thou not tell?
Two Peas are not more like, 'tis drawn ſo well.
The Cap, 'tis true, the Forehead may diſguiſe;
But pray, obſerve the Chin, the Noſe, the Eyes,
The lively Features muſt the Town ſurprize!
Mark, with what Air he holds his Hunting Whip! ——
Had he a Horſe, how dauntleſs would he leap
A ſix Barr'd Gate! — How ſmoothly can he dance!
No Wonder! that indeed he learn'd in France. ——
How great a Maſter of learn'd Ariſtotle!
And yet a greater Miſter — of the Bottle.
With Kings he's free, forever gay and witty; ——
In ſuch a May'r — thrice happy LONDON CITY!

FOREIGN NEWS.

Arrived Mails.——Sunday; thoſe due from Holland.——Monday; one from Holland.——Tueſday; two from France.

VENICE, Nov. 18. N. S. We have received Letters from Conſtantinople, of the 11th of October, which inform us, that the new Sultan was inſtall'd the 6th of that Month with the uſual Ceremonies. That Prince got on Horſeback betimes in the Morning, and went from the Seraglio to the Great Moſque, where the Mufti preſented the Sabre to him, and girded it to his Side. The Grand Seignior afterwards return'd to the Seraglio amidſt a prodigious Crowd of People and Soldiers, who made a Lane for him, and admired the fine Make and the Majeſty of that Prince, who has a great deal of Spirit, is of a robuſt Complexion, fit to undergo the Toils of War, very hardy at all Sorts of Exerciſes, and exceeding liberal. Theſe Letters add, that the Mutineers, after they had depoſed the Grand Seignior, and placed the preſent Sultan upon the Throne, went to the Old Seraglio, took out the new Sultan's Mother, and proclaim'd her Sultana Mother: That during the Tumult they open'd all the Priſons, and ſet the Priſoners at Liberty; that afterwards going to the Arſenal, they took off the Chains of the Galley Slaves of five Galleys that were there; and that the Officer that put himſelf at the Head of the Milecontent Janizaries, had been declared Aga of them, the old Aga being fled; as is alſo the Mufti, in whoſe room they had placed him who inſtall'd the new Sultan.

Vienna, Nov. 11. N. S. Our Court is perſuaded, that the Revolution which has lately happen'd in Turky cannot for a long Time have any Conſequences that ſhould give us the leaſt Uneaſineſs, though the Sultan be never ſo heartily diſpoſed to fall out with the Chriſtians: For that Prince cannot be ſettled upon the Throne, till he knows how the Army upon the Frontiers of Perſia will declare themſelves; and they are commanded by the depoſed Sultan's Son: But ſhould they declare in his Favour, he muſt firſt make Peace with the Sophi of Perſia, and pacify the Troubles in Egypt, before he can think of Meaſures for a new War, which will require extraordinary Preparations, and ſome Time to make them. Yeſterday the Imperial Miniſters held a long Conference at Prince Eugene of Savoy's, upon the Affairs of the preſent Juncture. Orders are actually iſſued for raiſing new Levies in all the Hereditary Countries, and particularly in Bohemia.

Extract of a Letter from Berlin.

The Day they beheaded Lieut. Katte at Kuſtrin, the Scaffold was erected under the Windows of the Prince Royal of Pruſſia; and he was obliged, againſt his Will, to ſtand at the Window whilſt Execution was performing; and as a farther Mortification, his Majeſty cauſed a certain young Perſon whom the Prince was accuſtomed to keep Company with, to be whipt through the Town. She is allow'd to be a Lady of great Merit, as well as Birth, and but 15 Years of Age. Before ſhe underwent this ſevere Treatment, ſhe was examined by Matrons to know whether or not ſhe had preſerv'd her Virginity.

Extract of a Letter from Copenhagen.

His preſent Majeſty, who could never brook well his Father's Marriage with the now Queen-Dowager, begins to ſhew his Reſentment, and has order'd all her Effects to be tranſported to the Caſtle of Valve, without ſo much as giving her Notice of it; ſo that ſhe will not have the Power of diſpoſing of the great Wealth ſhe has heap'd up under the late Reign, without the King's Knowledge; and it is ſaid his Majeſty will not permit her to take the State of a Queen, but that of a Counteſs only, which is the Quality ſhe was of before her Marriage was celebrated the Day after the former Queen's Interment.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

For the BENEFIT of all such as are afflicted with that unhappy Distemper, commonly call'd the EVIL; this publick Notice is given.

WHEREAS I Joseph Tibbitt, Citizen of London and Butcher, living in St. John's-Lane, in the Parish of St. James Clerkenwel, and County of Middlesex, have a Nephew (now upwards of Eight Years of Age) who for above three Years past has been very sorely afflicted with the EVIL, and after making repeated Trials of Surgeons, and others, for upwards of Two Years, to the inexpressible Torture of the Child, but without any Cure, I at last applied to Mrs. MILLER, School Mistress, next Door to Mr. Warburton's, near the Church at Watford, in Hartfordshire, who by the Blessing of God on her Endeavours, has almost effected a perfect Cure of him, to the Astonishment of all that know him. She has brought away several corrupted Bones, some an Inch long, some more, and others less; and restored him to very near as good a State of Health as he enjoy'd before this EVIL happen'd to him, and I do not doubt her completing it.

I therefore think my self oblig'd, for the Benefit of the many Persons who labour under like Misfortunes, to give this publick Notice, as well as to do justice to the Skill and Care of the said Mrs. MILLER. Witness my Hand this 27th Day of November 1730. JOSEPH TIBBITT.

N.B. The Truth of the above Narrative will be attested, and more fully explain'd, by the said Mr. Tibbitt, or Mrs. Miller, under whose Care the Child still is, where the Bones that came from him may be seen, by any Person who will please to call at Watford aforesaid.
